SIXTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF MINING AND METALLURGY

FUNERAL OF FRED KROLI VERY LARGE ATTENDED

The sixth annual session of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy will be held at the Greenhill Hotel, Blairmore, on Thursday, Friday of next week.

The session, covering two full days of deliberations in the best interests of mining and metallurgy in Canada, will be one of the largest and most important ever held.

A conservative estimate of the number to attend is given at 150, representing the leading industries and universities of the Dominion, as well as a strong representation from the United States.

The session opens on Thursday at 8:30 a.m., with registration of delegates. At 9:30 a.m., a civic welcome will be accorded through His Worship Mayor McLeod and President L. L. Morgan, of the Blairmore Board of Trade, to be responded to by Dr. R. C. Wallace, president of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

Appointment of committees will next follow, then at 1 p.m. the Civic and Board of Trade Luncheon.

Dr. J. A. Allan will preside at the afternoon session.

At 4 o'clock, a visit of inspection will be made of the dry-cleaning plant of the Greenhill mine of the West Canadian Collieries, courtesy Mr. Charbonnier and Mr. Vissac.

At 8 p.m., a grand smoker-concert will be made to the dry-cleaning plant of Messrs. McMurdo and Taysum, of Pincher Creek; T. Johnson, of Coleman; J. H. Tonks and J. F. Royle, of Hillcrest; David Hutton, of Bellevue; and J. R. Smith and G. Stevens, of Blairmore, assisting in the program.

The toast list will be as follows at the banquet to be held in the Greenhill Grill on Friday evening at 7:30:

The remains of the late Fred Krolli, who died at Portland, Oregon, of typhoid fever, arrived at Frank on Thursday night's train and the funeral took place from the home on Saturday afternoon. Hundreds of people were in attendance and the beautiful

The proposed special train to Kimberley will consist of a day coach and sufficient standard sleeping cars to accommodate one hundred or more. Sleepers will be available between 10 p.m. on the 17th and 3 a.m. on the 18th, when the train will leave for Kimberley, arriving there at 8:30 a.m. After spending several hours as guests of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, train will leave to return at 3 p.m., making connections with the regular train, No. 68, going east that night. This will allow members and guests to continue their journey east and north, without breaking same at Blairmore.

Richer Than Gold

There was no one visible in the Home Restaurant when Seymour entered. While talking to Cato, however, he had seen the woman unlock the door and disappear. Seymour knew, now, after he had shut the door, why behind him, he heard someone moving behind the partition in the room. He had gone to the door between a seat at one end of the two small tables or a stool at the cloth-covered counter beside the range. Presently he was in the room. He was seated at the counter.

That she had been crying was evident; also that she had made an effort to remove the traces. Inwardly Seymour regretted that he had not left her alone longer with her thoughts. "I'll leave it to you, ma'am," he said as she came to take his order. "Whatever is easiest for you in the way of a meal."

She murmured an apology for Gold's scanty marks, but thought she'd be able to feed him with nothing back on her plate. "Breakfast had been eaten; that morning, I had given her the set out a stack of soft slices. But she could not speak as encouragingly about the butter's age.

Seymour liked her voice, understanding, and infantile, and he could feel full sympathy for her wan smile. Fortunately the range was directly in front of him; he could distract her seeming rude as she placed a streak to broil and sliced pots to a raw-fry.

In the course of his intent study of her, his heart grew sick that something could be done to draw her out. With the second sip of coffee, he broke bluntly into her hand. "Well, they got poor Bart at last, I see?" he retorted.

He could see that he had startled her, as he had intended to do. She looked at him sharply, as if to make sure he was not a Royal Mounted. "I'm a way of saying 'yes,'" said Seymour. "I know now that he was not an officer of the Royal Mounted."

With uncertain steps she felt her way along the lunch counter.

"Not so fast," he said, smiling. "What's that?"

"Just what I say, madam. — What's more, I know that Bart's sudden talk might have been courageous, when he'd been pretended out. You have my deepest sympathy, Mrs. Caswell."

To himself, Seymour justified his seeming harshness of utterance on grounds of professional courtesy, that there might be real mercy for the woman also involved, in case he succeeded in breaking through her reserve, was another consideration. Everything depended upon her reaction to this "shot" assertion. He had followed her on a hunch of her emotions at his impulsive's a bit. Once, Cato had been a Royal Canadian for her showing of grief. While studying her when she stood over the range, however, the idea had come to him that she had been Bert Caswell's wife. He was prepared to be shown

NERVES AND FAINTING SPELLS

Seant Woman to Bed: Great Change After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sarnia, Ontario.—"After my girlie was born, I was a wreck. My nerves were too bad for me to work. My body could not stand or walk without pain. I suffered with fainting spells until I was no longer any good for my husband. He said, 'You must be ill.' The doctor said I should have an operation, but I was not in a fit condition at that time. My neighbor said, 'Why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' I am sure it will do you good and will save those doctor's bills. I was advised by my husband to try it after I told him it. I am very thankful to say that I was soon able to take a few boarders for a while as rooming house agent at that time. My husband is 17 years old now and I have not yet had an operation, thanks to your medicine. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to a few people. I know and have told them that it has done me."

I know and feel and look a different woman these last few months and I certainly would not be without a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You can use this letter as you see fit, as I should be only too glad for those using it to have it published. — Yours for me, Mrs. Borden, G. MacGregor, R. No. 2, Sarnia, Ontario.

A recent canvas of women users of the Vegetable Compound report 80 out of 100 are satisfied with it. This is a remarkable proof of its merits. O that the woman herself was not a criminal, even by inclination. In a case like this, she was predisposed to believe that she would prove especially honest.

"You're wrong, stranger—wrong on me," said Seymour, who replied that he had strolled over, was forcing her voice to hold an even tone. Seymour could not yet be sure that his hunch was right.

"Seymour was a staff-sergeant," she went on. "The coward that murdered him will learn that to his sorrow when Russell's mates come from the Mounties to take his body home for my being his widow." She said a little more but was almost too much strata upon her blithesome powers. "I think said that man had come to pay and did not stop to speak; but as it stands, he was just a brave friend and a good—paying boarder."

A moment the sergeant merely stared at her; when he leaned along the counter toward her. "You'd like to see your brave friend's player published?"

"A flash of fury lit her worn face; her teeth clicked ominously and her small, work-roughened hands clenched. "I'd give the world if it were mine to see him with you again," she said. "If ever I find out who—"

She checked herself, evidently fearing that she was going too far in behalf of a friend and a good—paying boarder.

"Then tell me all you can about Bart, his recent movements and what he had planned for the future," urged Seymour, quietly, as if to help him to the man who killed him. Mrs. Caswell.

Probably it was more his repetition of that "Mrs. Caswell" than his declaration of her that suddenly unversed her. It was such convincing indication that her denials had not been sincere.

"She was a widow, but her husband had been right, but there was no need to press it unfriendly."

She should have all the time she wanted for some readjustment.

"How come to think about us?" she asked presently without looking up.

"I know, ma'am. I am the real Russell's mate, the sergeant whose name is on the door."

His mask was off. He had been more frank than at first he intended to be, but, in all circumstances, he was a mystery secret of his identity safe with her.

Bart's widow started up in her chair. "Here's a son," she exclaimed.

"Not soon enough, though, I'm sorry to say. If the Force had planted a detachment here with the first force, probably your husband would not have been tempted to hold up the B. C. X."

Mrs. Caswell groaned in her anguish. "You know—about me?" she asked.

"How else would I get possession of my uniform? Tell me, madam; what did he expect to gather when he held up the baggage stage?"

"I can't tell you that my clothes were taken by him."

But the little woman was not transparent. She had to show her official shield, which he had taken from its place of concealment in his train pack when he entered the restaurant. "I'm too old to be a spy," she said, "but I have to wait to know what Bart Caswell had in mind that was richer than gold and was to be had on the Creeds of Argonaut with the aid of a Royal Canadian police uniform."

SCOTT'S
EMULSIONLongs To Be Treated
Like Human Being
Prince Says He Hates Bunk and
Staring Crowds

The Prince of Wales revealed himself in an intensely human way to a traveller in the Berengaria, who relates the story of his interview in the New York American, under the signature of "A Fellow-Voyager."

In the course of the conversation the Prince said: "I hate bunk. It's loathsome to have to go through endless meaningless ceremonies day after day, to feel that every person I meet does not consider me as a human being, but as the heir of the British Empire." He paused, and when he continued his tone had a touch of bitterness in it.

"Do you know what it feels like to realize that every second, every day, people are staring at you, that in your own home, as you walk in the streets as you go from place to place, every eye of every person is boring into you? Can you imagine the torment of it?"

"I wish I could let the American people understand that this trip is my holiday. All I want is to be left alone and treated with no more consideration than John Smith. I need rest and change. I've simply got to have a regular holiday and be treated for once without special attention, once without the incessant stares of a thousand persons that sees me."

"There is no come here as Lord Renfrew, because the United States is today the greatest power politically in the world. It would be an insult for me to come here except in my highest capacity. I go to France and elsewhere in Europe as Lord Renfrew, but not here. It was for that reason that I insisted on paying my respects to the President as my first act in your country. I could not do otherwise."

The writer in the American says that he told the Prince that the principal question which America wanted him to ask was: Why has he left off his horses and ads:

"My question, asked at three o'clock in the morning before his elaborate reception, had been: Do you know the question in the mind of every American citizen that is more pressing than the election or the income tax? It is, Why is it you are always falling off your horses?"

"The Prince nearly jumped out of his chair. Plainly he was greatly annoyed. He first said, "What if I say never fall off horses?"

In one of his characteristic nervous gestures he abruptly pulled his cigarette out of his mouth as though it burned him. I reminded him that demon photographers, who are really distasteful to him, although he is invariably courteous to them, had recorded his mishaps in an undeniably everlasting manner.

Following another of his nervous tics he stumbled at his neckline, thought a minute, and then responded: "I never fall off horses. In the twelve years I've been riding in hunts, races, and polo I've never fallen from a horse. Every time I've had a tumble it's been the horse that went down. I've never fallen while the horse was standing."

Missed One Good Point

Lawyer Had Unique Way of Proving Client Innocent

The absolutely frank with his clients, and, accordingly, when a man came to him charged with stealing a pig he said:

"Now, I will be perfectly open with you. If I take your case you must, in the first place, tell me honestly: Did you, or did you not, steal this pig?"

"Well, yes, sir, I did," the man admitted. "But I have a big family and no money, and I was in need of meat for them."

"That's all right," replied the lawyer. "You bring me half that pig and I'll take on your case."

When the case came into the court the lawyer addressed the jury thus: "This man did not get any more of the pig than I did."

The verdict was "Not guilty."—National Labor Tribune.

The foreman looked him up and down. "Are you a mechanic?" he asked. "No, son," was the answer. "I'm a McCarthy."

Bear River, N. B.—My back was so bad I could hardly work. I was always tired out and had no ambition; was afraid to go to work. I had terrible pain in my right side. I left badly for about six months. I had to give up all my work as it should have been done. I tried several doctors, and after being told that I had a tumor in my spine, I gave up. I have taken two bottles of the Discovery and Health Pill and one bottle of the Gold Pill. I feel as well as I have felt for the last ten years. Policemen Of The Seas

The Heavy Burden Which Must Be Carried By Great Britain

If the United States decided definitely to abandon battleships for aircraft exclusively, the world can only conclude that this great nation is intent upon shrinking its moral responsibility to help keep peace on the seven seas of the earth.

For home defence, the battleship is obsolete. But until the service of flying is able to produce an airship capable of successfully patrolling remote areas as the battleship does, the great Anglo-Saxon powers, upon whose ideals of progress depend the peace of the world, will be compelled to fight ships no matter what the cost.

If the United States withdrew from the battleship field to concentrate all defense expenditures upon aircraft that can operate no further than a few hundred miles from American shores, the whole burden of policing the seven seas will fall in crushing force upon the British Empire.—Vancouver Sun.

Extend Postal Facilities

Mail Service to Towns on New Western Branch Lines

Mail services are being extended to the new branch lines built in Saskatchewan and local business houses will soon be able to receive communications and send mail to the dozens of points by train, hitherto served by rural delivery. Serviced on the Langton-Melfort line which formerly only extended to Nipigon, has now been established throughout the entire route. It also means a through service from Regina to Melfort.

The Telford-Tidale extension also necessitates expansion by the post office department, rural, hamlet and stage delivery being abolished, and the new branch and village will be given an up-to-date postal service, starting about the first of the month and extending to the middle of October until all have been connected with the main line service. The Cut Knife-Bitter River extension is almost ready for the postal service, although the train service is only running as far as Marsden.—Free Press.

Railway Ship Canal

Germany Has Solved Problem of Transporting Vessels Overland

So that vessels may carry their passengers and cargo overland between separated bodies of water, a railway ship canal, consisting of sluices, inclined planes and large specially designed railroad flat cars, has been built in Germany. When a steamer reaches its terminus, the flat cars are rolled up an incline into the water at a slight angle to the boat. It is then drawn back up the slope and, with the ship on top, is transported to the next body of water into which it runs far enough to permit the vessel to float. This line was built to provide communication between East Prussia and the different bodies of water from which it has been cut off by the new divisions of territory resulting from the war.

"BREAKING IN" PIPES REALLY SIMPLE TASK

Few pipe smokers enjoy the process of "breaking in" a new pipe. It's really a simple proposition if a little care is exercised and an effort which will repay the smoker in almost countless hours of satisfaction from a well-seasoned briar pipe.

The first rule is that a new briar should never be "starred" in a draughty place or out-of-doors. Fill the pipe with good tobacco—like "M. R. BRIER," say an expert—and smoke it until it is too rapid or excessive heating. The pipe should be smoked until every particle of "BRIER" is consumed, so that the "cake" may form at the bottom as well as at the top of the bowl. A new pipe should be allowed to become quite before being refilled.

"BRIER," Macdonald's briar, makes the best fill for any pipe, new or old, and more men smoke "BRIER" than any other brand in Canada today.

Plans For Root and Storage Cellars

Plans for the construction of cellars for the storage of roots and perishable products generally, are contained in the pamphlet, "Root and Storage Cellars," issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. Three types of cellar are presented: (1) The cellar under the barn driveway; (2) The cellar under a building; and (3) The isolated cellar. Diagrams and specifications are given for each.

Externally or internally, it is good to keep the cellar dry by a brick rubbing, Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil opens the pores and penetrates the surface, touching the seat of the trouble ministered internally. It will still irritate in the throat which induces coughing and will relieve affection of the bronchial and respiratory organs. Try it and be convinced.

May Compel Whites To Abandon Africa

Natives Will Crowd Out White Civilization's Prediction

The next 25 years will decide the question once and for all whether the white race is to have any place in the ultimate development of South Africa, which is crowded out by the natives. This startling statement appears in a memorandum to the Secretary of State for the Colonies by the Foreign Office in the 1921 census. Colonizations to the ranks of the white race from abroad, the blue book states, the whites must "ever" abandon the prospect of maintaining white civilization in South Africa, except as a diminishing minority, and it may then be forced to abandon its dominion or even abandon the country altogether.

THE UNITED STATES

MONEY MARKET

The Weekly Letter of the Harvard Economic Service, dated September 6th last, contains some highly interesting remarks in regard to the financial situation in the United States, with special reference to the effect which conditions in the money market of that country may have on European finance, during the period of recovery it is hoped that the Reparations Settlement will inaugurate. The article in question refers to the desirability of European countries returning to the gold standard, and it regards this development as not so remote as might have been imagined a year ago. It points out that an attempt to curtail credits or deface commodity prices in the United States would make it difficult for European debtors to meet their obligations in that country, without shipping large amounts of gold, thereby jeopardizing the successful resumption of specie payments in Europe. Summing up these remarks, the article says:

"Upon countries like Great Britain, which are already undertaking to meet their obligations to the American Government, high money rates and commodity price deflation in the United States would impose burdens that would probably make a restoration of gold payments impossible. Since the stake we have in the success of the experiment will be so great and our responsibilities as a creditor nation will be so obvious, it is reasonable to expect that the financial policies of the United States during the period when Europe is trying to return to a specie basis will be favorable to easy money and to maintenance, or even the actual rise, of commodity price levels.

"When these factors will begin to affect actual business conditions cannot be safely forecast; but they may become operative not far from the time when the German mark is definitely stabilized. Looking ahead, therefore, some six or twelve months, this country not improbably faces conditions which will make for continued ease in the money markets and for a relatively high level of commodity prices."

The policy advocated above is apparently being followed in the United States today. All but one of the Federal Reserve Banks have lowered their rediscount rates within the last five months, that of the New York Federal Reserve Bank having been reduced three times during the period referred to. The Federal Reserve Banks have latterly done nothing to counteract the influence of fresh importations of gold. Between April 16th and September 10th, Federal Reserve Bank holdings of U. S. Government Securities and bills purchased in the open market increased $218,000,000, while member bank borrowings decreased $200,000,000. The central institutions are keeping the market well supplied with funds.

If easy money and firm commodity prices in the United States will be of assistance to European countries in stabilizing their currencies in New York (and this should be the case) then the policy referred to is an excellent one, because there is no doubt that the exchange fluctuations of the last few years have been a severe handicap to exporters and importers, and have tended to reduce the volume of international business.

LIMITING HOME WORK

In view of the controversy that has been going on among teachers throughout Alberta, the following, copied from a recent issue of the Winnipeg Tribune, may be of interest:

"The Ontario government has taken definite measures to control the amount of homework given public school pupils. It has set aside a fixed study-hour in the school day, in which the pupils will be able to do most, if not all, of the work that originally is given as homework. The new regulations do not abolish homework altogether, but do reduce it to a minimum. "Winnipeg parents, if a census could be taken of their opinions, would probably be found almost unanimous in regretting that these regulations are not in force here."

"The homework given pupils in the public schools in Winnipeg varies according to the ideas of principals and teachers. In general it can safely be said it is excessive in amount and all too frequently of doubtful value. There are exceptions, principals and teachers who take every care to fix homework at a minimum point and keep it there. But these are exceptions; the rule is heavy homework, which must be done to show the teacher in the morning.

"An eight-hour day has become almost standard for adults. It is regarded as the limit for steady efficiency. The tendency is to shorten working hours still further. If an eight-hour day is the limit of efficiency for a mature man, a five and one-half hour day makes heavy demands upon the vitality of a boy or girl in the early teens or younger. Add an hour or an hour and a half to that, and it is immediately clear that the demand becomes excessive, particularly upon the nervous and high-strung children the period seems to produce.

"There is a form of homework which is valuable to the pupil and not unduly burdensome. It is the outline of a course of study designed to fix in the pupil's mind the lessons learned each day in school. Even this should not be laid upon the pupil as a task, but offered as a means of making the lessons of permanent value and of obtaining class standing. It should not require, in the case of pupils up to grade eight, more than half an hour.

"The kind of homework that is all wrong is the kind imposed upon the pupil as a task, and really designed to make good deficiency in the school teaching. When it requires children of tender years to spend long hours struggling to work out difficult arithmetic or algebra problems, with penalties imposed if the work is not presented next morning properly done, it sends the children to bed with minds tired out and hating school and all school work. It is distinctly injurious to health, and in many cases brings the child to school in the morning tired, resentful, and in no condition to absorb knowledge.

"Our school system is highly organized. Each principal desires his school to make a good showing in the examinations. Each teacher desires her class to show well in comparison with other classes. The result from the standpoint of the children, and their parents, is unfortunate. They are driven at top speed, with the result that boys and girls of thirteen and fourteen are graduated from high school and supposedly ready for university life.

"The Ontario regulations will make for less haste, less driving of the children, better health and really better education. Winnipeg might well devote some time to the problem."

UNDERWRITERS' ENGINEER MAKES IMPORTANT RECOMMENDATIONS

The supplementary report of the inspecting engineer of the Western Canada Fire Underwriters' Association, on Blairstmore, issued August the 16th, contains the following information which will be of interest:

"The population is estimated to be over 2000, an increase of approximately 500 since July, 1922. No record is kept of fire losses, but it is stated that only two fires have occurred in the past one and a half years. The water supply is obtained by gravity from a reservoir formed by a dam across a small mountain stream, which provides a considerable amount of storage. The supply main to the town is twelve-inch wood stave pipe. Its length is about two miles. The rate of consumption is not known. The pressure appears about eighty-five pounds. No extensions have been made to the distribution system since last report. The gate valves were being overhauled and provided with iron boxes, through which to reach the operating nuts, in place of the wooden boxes formerly in use. The hydrants have been put in good condition.

The fire department is a volunteer organization consisting of nine members and practice is held every two weeks during the summer. The equipment is kept in the basement of a building containing the municipal offices and two members of the brigade have rooms in the second floor of the same building. The total amount of 2½ inch cotton rubber hose in service is 2000 feet. The merchant came tearing down the street to the newspaper office wanting to know why the obituary of his wife's mother was not in the paper, especially after he had seen that a copy was taken to the newspaper office.

The building by-law is unchanged, but new buildings erected in the cantile district are required to have people so I took and nailed it up on walls of brick, stone or concrete, your billboard."

Frame buildings in the mercantile district are being gradually eliminated and now most of the construction is brick. The building by-law has been amended, making all electric wiring subject to inspection by the town electrician.

The report strongly condemns the place where the fire apparatus is kept, chiefly because it is in a basement below the street level, and recommends the use of an automobile chemical engine or a combined chemical and hose car, together with a combination pump and hose car, with pumping capacity of about 500 gallons per minute. One advantage of the engine would be that it could protect part of the town by pumping from the river in the event of any trouble with the water supply.

A fire station with brick or concrete walls and concrete floor, with hose-drying tower and suitable accommodation for the men is also recommended, also a suitable general alarm bell or siren.

The engineer also states that a good fire-prevention by-law, similar to that suggested by the Western Canada Fire Underwriters' Association, should be adopted and enforced by frequent inspections.

OH, BUT THAT'S DIFFERENT

An editor and a merchant were discussing the virtue of billboard advertising. The merchant contended that more people read the billboard than have rooms in the second floor of the same building. The total amount of 2½ inch cotton rubber hose in service is 2000 feet. There are about 300 telephone subscribers in the town and when a telephone alarm is given the municipal office is called, or the sleeping quarters above.

The building by-law is unchanged, but new buildings erected in the cantile district are required to have people so I took and nailed it up on walls of brick, stone or concrete, your billboard."

SUITABLE IMMIGRANTS
AVAILABLE FOR CANADA

"I am more than ever convinced that Canada offers finer prospects than any other country in the world for industrious and thrifty people who are looking for a place to establish homes and make a living." These were the words of W. D. Robb, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, when he arrived from England by the White Star Dominion liner "Megantic" a few days ago. Mr. Robb, who has charge of the department of colonization and development in addition to his other departments of the railway, has just returned from a tour of England, Scotland, Belgium and parts of France, where he has been reviewing the possibilities for obtaining settlers. He is firmly of the opinion that the north of England and Scotland, especially the latter, has a large number of potential immigrants of the right type for Canada. Holland, also, offers a good field, Mr. Robb believes.

CANADA CAN DO MUCH TO BRING MORE TOURISTS

The tourist industry is the ripest in Western Canada for development at the present time. This is the statement made this morning by Fred V. Seibert, engineer of the Dominion natural resources intelligence department, Ottawa, who is paying the city a visit. He is en route east after a tour of the Pacific coast, and the mountain regions of B.C.

"Everywhere I am impressed with the possibilities we have in Western Canada in the line of tourist traffic. We have the scenic beauty and we are getting the right type of roads. The natural inclination of the millions of people south of the border is to come north in the summer. These Americans are people with cars and money. They are great motor tourists. They have a general knowledge of Canada but that knowledge is not definite. It is up to us to advertise our scenic resources more, for in my opinion I think our scenery is a resource ripe for development at the present time," said Mr. Seibert.

"I am converted to the tourist position. I have seen the vast wealth it is bringing to many of the Pacific coast states and to B.C. But Canada is not getting its share. We have the greatest scenery in the world in our Rockies while the vast grain fields of the prairie form a nice contrast as the motorist leaves the mountain valleys for the plains rich in their legends and history."

"But the effects of the tourist traffic do not stop there. They are far-reaching. There is no better way to advertise the resources of our country. The tourist is a first-class publicity man, and if we can direct a large stream of tourists through our immense wheat-producing country, mixed farming areas, our mining districts, and so forth, it is going to result in settlement and the influx of new investments."

The branch of the government service represented by Mr. Seibert, the Natural Resources Intelligence Service, is part of the department of the interior. Its purpose is to furnish a central bureau of information respecting Canada's natural resources. It is designed to supplement the services of other organizations, such as Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, etc., without duplicating them. Thus one of its chief concerns is the investigation of resources and the collection of data relating to them. The service is available to anyone interested, Mr. Seibert says.—Lethbridge Herald.

Newspaper men, as a rule, have but two things to sell, space and subscriptions; and it would be just as consistent to ask your greener for a dozen oranges "just to fill up," as to ask an editor for a dozen lines in his paper to boost business, or some project whereby the promoters will realize a revenue, with the idea that you are doing a kindness in helping to fill up space. Try getting a free dinner at a hotel or restaurant "just to fill up."

MAKE "ALL-RED" ROUTE
A GRAVELLED ONE

Up to the recent rains contracts for road work in the south were proceeding favorably. An important piece of work under way on the Red Trail is the Coleman-Blairmore road. Road Inspector Bradley says this is the most travelled piece of road in his district and because of its heavy usage the government is spending considerable money in its improvement. The trail is being straightened and broadened and when finished will be a decided improvement on the old trail.

It is the aim of the department, Mr. Bradley says, to make a gravelled, all-weather road of the Red Trail from the B.C. boundary through to Saskatchewan. This may require a building program covering a number of years, but eventually it will be accomplished.

On the Sunshine Trail, Dodge and Macleod, are busy on two contracts and some excellent road is being made. The contracts provide for the construction of 11 miles north from Warner and about six miles north from Milk River. Good headway is being made as the contractors, both experienced roadmen and construction experts, have good equipment consisting of 40 teams and Fresno outfitts. Three miles of gravel surfacing had been finished several days ago.

Work is proceeding on the Six Mile Coulee bridge, the hope being that it will be ready for traffic by the first of November.—Ex.

A GOOD STORY

Pat had had an argument with a Glasgow Grinch orator who professed to be an atheist. He was pretty slick with the tongue and was able to confuse Pat considerably. After the episode Pat felt very sore, especially as he was prevented from using his best arguments—two big fists. Pat had a few drinks and later was walking to his home along the Broomie-law, when he met the object of his wrath. Seizing him he thrashed him good, and then being very much stronger than the atheist, he hauled him over and threw him in the River Clyde. He still held on to his coat collar and after holding him down almost a minute he hauled him up till his head was out of the water and then asked him "Do you believe in God?" The atheist said "yes." "Huh," said Pat, "what religion do you profess?" "I'm a Baptist," said the victim. "That's no good," said Pat, "no good at all," and he put him down the second time. After another minute under water he hauled him up once more and said "Now what are you?" "I'm a Presbyterian." "That's worse," said Pat, and down he went again and the same tactics were re-enacted. He hauled him up the third time and asked him what religion he professed. "I'm a Catholic, the same as yourself, Pat," said the atheist. "Begorra," said Pat, "now you're talking since, Mr. Bucks, down go ye now for good, ye'll have the satisfaction of dying in the true faith onyhow."

In telling these stories we feel that no reader may be able to read anything into them clear of what the writer intends—a joke purely and simply. As an antidote to this day's joke, we might tell one on the Rev. Father McKinnon, of Sydney Mines. He was out walking one day and met a little black boy, "Hello Samb," he said, (his invariable salutation to all boys, black or white). "Hello Father," said the plianiany. "What Samb, are you a Catholic?" "Oh gee, no, Father, don't you think it is bad enough to be black?"—Sydney Post

The Masonic District Meeting took place here yesterday in the hotel hall. Grand Master Horace P. Reid, of Edmonton, and Grand Secretary S. Y. Taylor, of Calgary, together with about one hundred delegates from other parts of the district were present. At the close of the session a grand banquet was served at the opera house, when about 250 members were entertained.

WHO SAYS "OH,
WHAT'S THE USE?"

A young man ran for the Legislature of Illinois and was badly swamped.

He next entered business, failed and spent seventeen years of his life paying up debts of a worthless partner.

He was in love with a beautiful woman, to whom he became engaged then she died.

Entering politics again, he ran for Congress and was badly defeated. Then tried to get an appointment to the United States land office, but failed.

He became a candidate for the United States Senate and was badly defeated.

Then he became a candidate for the Vice-Presidency of the United States and was once more defeated.

One had ready after another—bad failures—great setbacks.

Then he became one of the greatest men of America—Abraham Lincoln. Who says, "Oh, What's the Use?"

AGE CAN NOT WITHER

An editor comes right out and flouts his ignorance. He declares he can't help his son with his night work when the questions are like these: "If it takes a four-month-old woodpecker with a rubber bill nine months and thirteen days to peck a hole through a cypress log that will make 117 shingles, and it takes 165 shingles to make a bundle worth 93 cents, how long will it take a cross-eyed grasshopper with a cork leg to kick all the seeds out of a dill pickle?"—Kansas City Star.

THE GROOM, OH,

WHERE WAS HE?

It has often been said that a groom at a wedding is like the fifth wheel to a wagon, only worse—a thing of no importance. Rather in the way, as a matter of fact. Here is a living example of the truth of this statement. Before me lies a half-column account of a wedding. We know where it happened; we know the bride's full name. We read that the church was beautifully decorated with white poinsettias and daisies and palms and ferns. The bride, we note, wore a sleeveless georgette dress trimmed with bands of crystal beads and rhinestones and ostrich plumes and all that sort of thing. We also note that the bride's mother looked charming in another georgette gown—we wonder what minds to show no mercy to the pocketbooks of the young men who associate with them and that they are devoid of any ambition except to have what they describe as "a good time" so long as they can find a victim who will provide the cash. The charge is a very broad one but it perhaps applies to a large extent to a considerable portion of young femininity today with the result that home-making has largely gone out of fashion, unless the man can command funds from his parents or is fortunate enough to make an early strike in business, a situation that is very infrequent.

An eighth-grade pupil at the local school was asked as to what course he proposed to follow in university. She replied: "Lady barber."

The annual meeting of the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association will be held in Calgary on November the 1st. It is expected that many delegates from various sections of the province will be in attendance.

The Calgary court has decided that gasoline can be sold on Sunday and motor-repair service given garages. The charge against the Dodge Motors for infraction of the Lord's Day Act was dismissed by Magistrate Saunderson.

Under the scheme recently inaugurated by Hon. George Headley, minister of agriculture, with the overseas settlement board, whereby British young men are to come to Alberta for special training at the Vermillion school of agriculture with a view to placing them on farms, some fifty applications have already been received by the settlement board in London. Although the stipulation was that not less than 100 were to be sent out in the first party, application has been made to the department in Edmonton to have the fifty young men sent out at once to commence their training.

C. P. R. DETERMINED TO STOP TRESPASSING

Chief investigator for the C. P. R., Calgary Division, has been in the district for several days looking into various problems that have been confronting his company. The chief problem is that of persistent trespassing on the company's right-of-way. In order to warn the public against this practice, a local man appeared before the court this morning charged with trespassing and with cutting the company's fence in order to haul firewood across the track. He was obliged to pay a fine and costs.

The company are determined to put a stop to trespassing and unless the practice is discontinued at once, other parties will be haled before the court.

DO THE GIRLS GRAFT
ON THE YOUNG MEN?

(From the Galt Reporter)

A young man contributes an article to one of the leading magazines in which he sets forth his experience with several young ladies with whom he kept company. He found that his average outlay for candy, picture shows, taxis and dinners amounted to a large sum. After several years of this sort of spending he came to the conclusion that keeping company with the average girl involved an outlay which the average young man could not finance and make progress in business. When he broached the question of marriage he was informed by his parents that he was in a very firm manner that his prospects in life did not warrant such a sacrifice on the part of the young lady and that unless a near millionaire came along single life was preferred by these girls. Now this young man claims that he has sworn off so far as the company of girls is concerned, that he is going to spend his evenings at the office endeavoring to learn more about the business and incidentally save a score of dollars a week in the process. He has concluded that the girls of today are grafters, pure and simple, that they have made up their minds to show no mercy to the pocketbooks of the young men who associate with them and that they are devoid of any ambition except to have what they describe as "a good time" so long as they can find a victim who will provide the cash. The charge is a very broad one but it perhaps applies to a large extent to a considerable portion of young femininity today with the result that home-making has largely gone out of fashion, unless the man can command funds from his parents or is fortunate enough to make an early strike in business, a situation that is very infrequent.

Bring Down Production Costs

The rise in the price of wheat means a better return for his year's work to the Western farmer, and this betterment does not come a bit too soon, because it is admitted by everybody that things have not been well with Western agriculture.

Too frequently in the past an increase in the selling price of wheat has been accompanied by an increase in the cost of production and marketing, with the result that the profits of the higher price has not accrued to the farmer. This year, however, this situation does not, fortunately, prevail. On the contrary production and marketing costs are on the whole, lower.

Grainfying and import are as the rise in the price of wheat, reductions in production and marketing costs is even more important. The advance in price may be but temporary, and a change in world crop conditions next year may mean a decided drop. Reductions effected in production and marketing costs are likely to continue effective for a longer period of time, and, inasmuch as a penny saved is as good as a penny earned, the importance of bringing about such reductions in a permanent way becomes manifest.

The inauguration of Wheat Pools in the three prairie provinces with a joint selling agency is designed to bring about a permanent saving in costs of marketing and selling, while at the same time assisting to maintain prices by preventing the dumping of too great a volume of wheat on the market at any time, thereby "breaking" the price. If the farmers stand loyal by their Pools—and we believe the vast majority will—coupled with careful and expert management, the desired results should be realized.

A lasting reduction in production costs should likewise result from the coming into full effect of the lower freight rates provided for in the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement. True, as those rates have been applied, discrimination of various kinds has resulted, which discriminations cannot be allowed to continue, and the time is at hand for the Railways Commission for adjustment. However, as the C.N.W.R. rates are part and parcel of a contract, and the people have a right to expect, and will demand, that the lower rates provided for, and the consideration for which the country has already paid, be maintained, and any discrimination existing removed, not by raising these rates, but by meeting them where necessary.

Railway freight and express rates are still higher in the West than in the East, notwithstanding the fact that the old bogey that operating costs were greater and net earnings lower in the West than in the East has long since been disposed of, and the fact established that the reverse is true. Freight rates are still unduly burdensome on Western production and development, both as to incoming and outgoing shipments. It is probably true that the railways are not wholly to blame for present rates. They are still suffering from the insane McAdam award in the United States during the war which boosted wages of railway employees out of all proportion to those prevailing in other lines of business activity, and imposing restrictions as to employment even more serious than the wage increases. The producers of Canada cannot continue to pay these wages and employ more men than are necessary to give required transportation service.

Farmers themselves can continue to do much, individually to bring down their production costs, and in increasing extent they can themselves raise supplies which to too great an extent in the past they purchased at the prevailing high prices. Greater care of farm machinery, and its proper housing when not in use, will reduce repair bills enormously and lengthen the life of necessary farm equipment.

Then, too, the most expensive business in which many Western farmers are today engaged is the production of weeds and the threshing, hauling to market, freightling to terminals, and finally cleaning of seed weeds. Not only does all this constitute a dead loss in itself, but through lower yields per acre and in depreciation of land values, farmers are paying a tremendous bill. No matter how high the price of wheat may go, it will not compensate for this loss, and regardless of how low freight rates may be, they will always be exorbitantly heavy on non-production seed weeds, of which, unfortunately, thousands of tons are shipped annually.

Western farmers act wisely in co-operating in the marketing and selling of their grain; they do well to continue the fight for lower freight rates and reductions in the cost of articles they must purchase, but along with these efforts there must be unremitting attention to individual farm management if Western agriculture is to prosper and be lifted out of its present depression.

Lead World Grain Storage Facilities

With the construction of Reliance elevator, the latest addition to the numerous grain elevator plants along the south shore of Port Arthur, it is claimed the Canadian "Head of the Lake" ports lead the world with grain storage facilities. With the new plant, which will commence operation on October 1, Port Arthur takes the lead over Fort William in aggregate capacity, although the latter has more plants.

Forty Bushels To Acre

Clarence Elder of Raymond completed threshing on an 80-acre field recently, and secured an average of 40 bushels of wheat per acre. The yield of the crop was delivered at the elevator, for which he received a net price of $1.21, a return of $48.40 per acre in one year.

This was the first threshing job this year of an average sized field in this district and is an indication of what the Raymond district can produce.

Flying Comes High

Has Already Cost the Nations Billions Of Dollars

Our great dirigible airship, the Sabine, cannot have a hangar on this coast because it would cost too much, and $25,000,000. The dirigible is at all nations can afford, and even that will cost $150,000. That of $150,000 for a hatching port. It is said that by the time the aviators encircle the globe, complete their journey will cost something in the neighborhood of $5,000,000. Of the billions flying has already cost the nations there is as yet no complete account, and we doubt if there ever will be. Flying comes, as well as goes, high, and we did not need it. If it had never been invented we would be getting along at our as well and could use the money for something else. However, it seems too late to do anything about it now.—San Francisco Bulletin.

THE GROWING GIRL

Requires a Mother's Constant Care

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to undergo a period of strength. Girls mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time, for it is when strength is sapped by too rapid growth that trouble begins. The following symptoms may be noticed by parents: languor and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation follow.

At the first symptom of anaemia, mothers should act at once. Neglect

NO ACTION IS YET TAKEN ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Ottawa.—The unemployment conference which was held here last month has apparently brought about no subsequent developments. If there has been any change it is not apparent.

A national committee, composed of representatives of Federal and Provincial Governments, was recommended, but none has been appointed. Before doing that, the Government takes the position that the provinces should state whether they are prepared to exercise the right of appointing employment service councils. None of them has yet been heard from. If these local bodies are not to be constituted it is held that there is no use appointing a national one.

In communications replying to municipal authorities since the conference the Federal Government is reaffirming its declaration that primarily the responsibility rests with the provinces and municipalities.

Meanwhile, the situation is not improving. People out of work who register for jobs show little increase over last year, but it is recognized that registration is an inaccurate indication of the real conditions, and people out of work are advised to record the fact so that the problem which all the cities have on their hands may be met.

Proposed Treaty Will Affect Farmers

Canada to Grant Australia Preference On Certain Foodstuffs

London.—The High Commissioner for Australia announced as the main terms of the proposed Canadian-Australian tariff agreement: "Certain goods of Canadian origin, including fish, gloves, machinery, and paper imported into Australia, will be given the benefit of the British preferential tariff while others consisting of iron and steel tubes or pipes and vehicle parts will enter under the intermediate tariff."

"The proposed British preferential rates under machines compare with ten per cent. under the intermediate tariff. Certain classes of printing paper also will be free compared with the present rate of £3 a ton. Gloves (textile only) will be subject to ten per cent."

"Regarding the other side of the agreement, Canada will grant Australia the British preference on fresh meat, canned meat, lard, tallow, eggs, butter, cheese, onions, raisins, currants, dried fruits (not otherwise provided for), canned fruits and vegetables, glue, gelatine, beeswax, pears, quinces, apricots, nectarines, honey and eucalyptus oil."

"Canada will amend the tariff on these items so as to increase the preference. Australia will also get the same rate as France regarding wines and brandy."

Bank Amalgamation

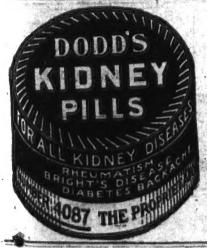

Reported That Standard and Sterling Banks Are To Join Forces

Toronto.—A joint announcement issued by the Boards of Directors of the Standard Bank of Canada and the Sterling Bank of Canada states that approval has been obtained from the Minister of Finance for the amalgamation of these two banks under the name of the Standard-Sterling Bank of Canada. Under the agreement two shares of Standard-Bank stock will be given for three shares of Sterling.

The agreement will be communicated as soon as it is finalized by shareholders of the institutions interested. A special meeting of the shareholders of the Sterling Bank for ratification of the agreement has been called for November 27. The shareholders of the Standard Bank have also been notified of a meeting to be held on November 17 for approval of the amalgamation.

Advertising Canada In British Isles

Travelling Exhibition Similar to That Which 'Toured France Is Suggested

"The best, most effective and cheapest publicity Canada has ever obtained," said Mr. Laureys, Director of the 'Golfeau des Hautes Etudes Commerciales,' when he wrote a feature story in a well known American publication, 'A Canadian Camera in France.' The Canadian Government has given money to wiser purpose, and the fact of this story being sent to the United States and being featured in the magazine section of the Boston Transcript, is just one instance of what general interest the Canadian motor train in France aroused. The train was three months on the road, exhibited in 20 principal French cities as well as innumerable smaller towns and villages of 10,000 population or less, and was visited by not less than 3,000,000 people—probably 7,000,000.

"It brings back very pleasant and stirring memories," continued Mr. Laureys, "of enthusiastic crowds which stopped at every point at which we stopped in France and Belgium; all eager to learn something about Canada and Canadian products and we carried the goods and products of over 150 Canadian manufacturers, 75 per cent. of which were accompanied by brochures and catalogues printed in the French language."

"It does not seem to have resulted in any flow of immigration from France to Canada," commented The Gazette's representative.

"That was hardly to be expected."

The French people are not emigrating just now; the war made them too much needed at home. The object of the train was purely a trade one, and that consideration it aroused extensive interest in the general populace. Certainly, Canada is receiving immediate benefit as a result."

A survey of the immigration figures for the first seven months of the calendar year shows that from all countries, Canada has received but 20,351 more immigrants during 1924 than during the similar period in 1923, and from Great Britain alone an increase of only 16,461, a disappointing result of the combined efforts of the Government and the transportation companies.

"It is undoubtedly a fact," continued Mr. Laureys, that all interested in the Dominion and further development of the Dominion would desire to see a greater influx of immigrants from Great Britain. "The Government figures indicate clearly that results are not up to expectation." The Hon. Mr. Robt. M. E. Beatty, Sir Henry Thornton, and other prominent men in this connection, have again and again emphasized the need of greater population and have been, and are doing, what they can to further it. What then further can be done to stimulate it? Would not a similar train operating in Great Britain be an effective and reasonable means of both stimulating further British immigration, whilst at the same time developing Canadian trade? Is there a better way of having Canada's possibilities known to the people of Great Britain, which possesses a large population? Such a train operating throughout the British Isles, exhibiting in the smaller towns and villages as well as the bigger ones, should through its very novelty, attract much attention and widespread publicity. Doubtless a replica of the thirty gray-green, blue-bordered motor trucks, travelling through England, Ireland and Scotland as they travelled through France and Belgium would something of a sensation which other forms of publicity have failed to effect. Whilst it would be economical, Canadian publicity in England has been too much of a hit and miss affair, just as it took tons of ammunition to despatch a single one of the enemy in the war."

"On the contrary, the motor train hits its object every time. It is startlingly conspicuous and speaks for itself. The largest city or the smallest hamlet may be visited, and invariably it is possible to secure the best location for attracting the greatest number of people. There is merely the removal of the side panels and Canada stands revealed in all the splendor of her most varied appeal.

"It is a travelling exhibition. It is a Wembley on wheels. It is safe to say that the greater portion of the people who contemplate emigrating from the British Isles did not have the opportunity of viewing the Canadian exhibit at Wembley. Let us take Wembley to them. Let us follow up the unquestioned success in its way of the British Empire Exhibition by taking the Canadian exhibition in the most effective way. Surely this is the psychological time, and I feel convinced that Canada would discover it to be the best and cheapest way of advertising herself in the British Isles she has yet tried."

Design For Laurier Statue Has Been Decided On

Ottawa.—The sub-committee of the Cabinet, which, with the assistance of experts, has been passing judgment upon the fifty designs submitted for the statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, have accepted, that of J. Emil Brunet, of Montreal. He is a young sculptor who has been studying abroad and who made some of the ornamental designs of the Parliament Building. The statue is to be in bronze and life size, and will be an imposing base, with steps leading to the pedestal. The model is very life-like. It will probably be cast and completed by next summer and the unveiling will be occasion of a ceremony fitting the distinguished statesman.

Decide On Handing Charge

Will Levy Half a Cent a Bushel On Platform-Loaded Wheat

Regina.—A handling charge of half a cent a bushel on platform-loaded wheat has been decided upon by the Saskatchewan wheat pool authorities, it was announced here. A similar charge will be made by the Alberta and Manitoba pools.

"At first it was thought the charge would be three-quarters of a cent a bushel," said G. W. Robertson, Secretary, "but after careful consideration it was decided to put it at the lower figure which is half—the regular charge for the service and is a quarter of a cent lower than the charge made by the Alberta pool last year."

"It does not seem to have resulted in any flow of immigration from France to Canada," commented The Gazette's representative.

"That was hardly to be expected."

"Men may say," continued the former premier, "that economic wars are possible because the interests of nations may be swayed by the same considerations as the interests of selfish individuals, and that under the influence of selfish interests, the ideal and duty may be obscured or mutilated. Tomorrow, therefore, having now settled protocol questions, the League of Nations must settle completed the difficult economic problems. But surely we are ready to help in this connection."

Great Britain, through Lord Palmerston, did not go as far as France, merely announcing her acceptance of the resolution transmitting the protocol to the Government, but promising to exert all the influence of the British Government and Parliament to ratify it. The speaker insisted that the protocol represented no attempt to make the council or the assembly a super-state, with authority over the various governments. Such an attempt would count inevitable failure.

"Neither the council nor the assembly," he continued, "will have any power to interfere in internal affairs beyond what is already comprehendible in the code of law that is not uniform throughout the world."

At all stages has been reached in the war of threat of war, at which stage a new condition arises and we enter into the sphere of international law."

Granted Respite

Montreal.—Leo Davis will not hang on October 24 with the other five bandits, with him convicted of the murder of Henri Cleroux, bank of Hochelaga chauffeur, as the Supreme Court of Canada, to which he had right of appeal because of the dissension of two judges of the appeal court from the decision in his case, does not meet until February.
